FOR THE RECORD

WHAT THESE VOTES WERE

What was voted on

Each roll call was a vote on a resolution to direct the removal of U.S. Armed Forces from hostilities within or against Iran that Congress has not authorized. Ten were motions to discharge the Senate Foreign Relations Committee, which let a resolution come to the floor if it passes. One was a motion to proceed (June 24). Two were votes on House-passed concurrent resolutions: H.Con.Res. 86 passed the Senate 50–48 on June 23 over Ricketts's no vote, and H.Con.Res. 89 failed 49–50 on Sept. 24.

The 60-day clock, and the other side of the argument

The War Powers Act limits unilateral presidential action to 60 days. The clock began March 2, when President Trump notified Congress, and Democrats argue it expired May 1. The president's reply was a letter saying that after the April 7 ceasefire, hostilities "have terminated." Ricketts made a similar point on May 20, calling the resolution moot because of the ceasefire.
